

Some students tell me, "I want a higher score on the SAT."

Perhaps your ultimate goal is to get into a university "that's right for you" NOT "to get a higher score on the SAT." I know many students who had high SAT scores but didn't get into the University of Florida, or Princeton, or Northwestern or USC.

I can give you what you need to get into a great university (and you can define "great"). It just takes a call. 954 646-8246.

Ask me about Portfolios and the Vornle Method

If you believe that your current goal is "to get a higher score on the SAT," I can help you achieve that goal. (I encourage you to find a longer-term goal, but if that's your goal, then my wife tells me, "Take their money and tell them what they need to know.")

Here's the plan:

a) Visit number2.com and majortests.com.

b) Learn the words on FreeVocabulary.com (maintained by Dr. S. Baba, Ph.D.)

I have a playlist on my youtube channel MisterMath

I do not "inject" vocabulary words into you and I do not insert a "math chip" in your brain. I show you shortcuts and then you (the student) need to practice. You can practice with a study buddy, with a parent, or with me. I charge $100 per hour. I show you how you can work with your study buddy and do many of the things that I suggest.

Key Quote: DENNIS LITTKY

In the early 1970s, I was placing student teachers in schools with "open classrooms." These schools were influenced by a big movement in the '60s that said having kids doing projects in small groups was a better set-up for learning than the traditional lecture format. One of my student teachers, a young, idealistic woman, turned to me one day and said, "This is great, Leonard, but when am I really going to learn how to teach?" She was standing there in an exciting, rich learning environment, but she couldn't see it because it didn't match her idea of what teaching was, which was standing up in front of the room, looking out at quiet rows of faces, and pouring knowledge into them. --- Chapter 1, The Big Picture
